INFORMATION AND INSTRUCTIONS

GENERAL INFORMATION

By law, your spouse (including a separated spouse) is given certain rights which must be taken into consideration when you withdraw or borrow from your TSP account. These legal requirements are summarized in the chart below. It is your responsibility to obtain the signature of your spouse if it is required. The TSP is responsible for sending any required notice to your spouse. The notice does not contain personal information about you; it informs your spouse of your in-service withdrawal request, your withdrawal choice if you have separated from Federal service, or that you have applied for a loan from your TSP account. The notice does not give your spouse a right to the money in your TSP account.

The TSP will notify you of the decision regarding your request for an exception to the spouses' rights requirements. An exception may only be granted under limited conditions.

Activity	Retirement System	Requirement	Exception
Loan or In-Service Withdrawal	FERS	Consent of Spouse	Whereabouts unknown or exceptional circumstances
	CSRS	Notification of spouse	Whereabouts unknown
Withdrawal After Separation	FERS	Waiver of annuity benefit by spouse*	Whereabouts unknown or exceptional circumstances
	CSRS	Notification of spouse*	Whereabouts unknown

* These requirements do not apply if your vested account balance is $3,500 or less at disbursement.

Note: A withdrawal request or loan application received within one year of an approved exception may be processed as long as the spouse named on the form is the spouse for whom the exception has been approved.

SECTION I

1 - 9: Complete all items in this section.

SECTION II

10: Whereabouts Unknown. If you are requesting an exception to the spousal requirements because your spouse's whereabouts are unknown, you must attach to this form either:

- a court order which states that the whereabouts of your spouse are unknown, OR
- a police or governmental agency determination issued by the appropriate department or division head which states that the whereabouts of your spouse are unknown, OR
- three statements (one by you and two by other persons). Your statement must (1) give the full name of your spouse; (2) state that your spouse cannot be found; and (3) describe the efforts made to locate your spouse. The statements by the other two persons must support your statement that you do not know the whereabouts of your spouse. Each statement must be signed and dated and must state the following:

I understand that a false statement or willful misrepresentation is punishable under Federal law (18 U.S.C. 1001) by a fine or imprisonment or both.

11: Exceptional Circumstances (FERS only). If you are a married FERS participant and the signature of your spouse is required to waive a joint annuity or consent to your loan or in-service withdrawal, you may request a waiver of the signature requirement if there are exceptional circumstances that make it inappropriate to obtain your spouse's signature. You must attach either a court order or a governmental agency determination issued by the appropriate department or division head. These documents must recite the exceptional circumstances. For example, a court order could; indicate that you and your spouse have been maintaining separate residences with no financial relationship for three or more year; or indicate that your spouse abandoned you but, for religious or other compelling reasons, you chose not to divorce; or state that you may borrow money from or withdraw all or a portion of your TSP account notwithstanding the absence of your spouse's signature.

SECTION III

12 - 13: You must sign and date this section certifying that the information you provided is true to the best of your knowledge.

SECTION IV

14 - 18: The TSP completes this section.
